Latest Product Release from ManageSoft Ensures Continuous IT Compliance

Application Recognition, License Entitlement, Contract Enforcement Under the Hood

BOSTON, MA, July 2, 2007, ManageSoft—the leading supplier of Continuous IT Compliance solutions for the global enterprise—announced today a major general release of its Compliance Manager product. Compliance Manager (v.7.8.5) allows software and hardware assets to be discovered, monitored, and reconciled against purchases to identify license discrepancies and hardware changes.

To provide an automated compliance solution, ManageSoft takes advantage of its large application recognition library and its license entitlement knowledge database to determine what software assets are being used and to perform a true-up against related contracts. Any non-compliance situations are highlighted, which paves the way to correction before liability is incurred through an audit, vendor negotiation, or true-up.

ECPweb's 2007 Software and IT Asset Management Tools Review heralded ManageSoft Compliance Manager solution's high degree of usability, highlighting its "easy-to-navigate interface and plain-English explanation of complex tasks."

"Vendor audits are becoming common place. Failure to pay sufficient attention to license entitlement is a costly proposition. Our Compliance Manager continuously identifies entitlement discrepancies as they arise, to ensure closed-loop compliance" explained Alan Swahn, vice president of marketing and business development at ManageSoft.
